

Jan van Vonno

Head of Industry and Wallets, Tink

Jan van Vonno is spearheading Tink's wallets proposition and industry strategy, focusing on industry and policy engagement to shape the future of payments and open banking.

Joining Tink in 2018, Jan was part of the first wave of recruits to help accelerate the platform and support the commercial organization in communicating effectively with an executive audience. He has supported Tink's journey in completing various acquisitions.

Prior to joining Tink, Jan worked for the International Data Corporation (IDC) where he covered various technology and business topics as the Head of the European digital transformation research program.

Jan has over a decade of experience in open banking research.