

Mattias Levin

Deputy Head of
the Digital Finance
Unit, DG FISMA,
European Commission

Mattias Levin is the Deputy Head of the Digital Finance Unit for the Directorate-General for Financial Stability, Financial Services and Capital Markets Union (DG FISMA) at the European Commission.

At DG FISMA, Mr. Levin has previously worked on regulation related to banks, investment firms, conglomerates and financial market infrastructures.

Before joining the European Commission, he was a member of the Bureau of European Policy Advisers (BEPA), a think tank attached to the President of the European Commission.

Mr. Levin studied at the London School of Economics, Lund University and the Institut d'Etudes Politiques of Strasbourg.